Meece remembered as dedicated official

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Carl Meece may have been small in stature but those who knew him best said that he was larger than life. And, they say, his love for law enforcement, Casey County, and its people filled his heart.

Meece, former Casey County Sheriff and County-Judge Executive with 24 years of elected service, died on Nov. 26. He was 72.

First elected as a constable in 1969, he would only serve for several months before being hired as a deputy. After four years as a deputy, Meece was elected sheriff in 1974, held the office for one term and then ran for Casey County Judge-Executive and won. At the end of that term, Meece successfully ran for sheriff and held the position for three terms, retiring in 1994.

And it was his love for law enforcement that some believe got him elected to serve in that capacity for two decades.

Passion

“Carl was a dedicated and effective public official for our county. His love or passion was for law enforcement and he pursued it with every ounce of enthusiasm that he had,” said Tom Weddle, Casey County Attorney who worked closely with Meece from 1986-1993.

Former Kentucky State Trooper Ralph Mings, who worked Casey County before he retired, agreed with Weddle.

“Carl was full of vitality. His heart and soul was into law enforcement and he loved life. It made more vigor come out of him,” Mings said.

Meece’s drive to enforce the law was evident by the extraordinary efforts he made to fight crime.

Mings recalled that Meece would discover large plots of marijuana being grown in the county by surveillance from a plane or by a tip from a confidential informant. Meece spent many hours in an airplane or walked countless miles in his fight to eradicate marijuana in Casey County.

Mings said that Meece wasn’t content to just find the marijuana, he wanted to catch the grower. The officers would camp out near “Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus,” the seasonal play about a little girl who wants to know if there really is a Santa Claus, will be performed by members of the Casey County Drama Club and the 21st Century Community Learning Center at Lights of Liberty Theater Dec. 13-15, marking the debut live performance of a play to be held in the theater since its opening earlier this year. The performers shown rehearsing are, from left, Rachel Bernard, Beau Coffman, Karey Sellers, Karis Cundiff, Shain Harrell, Sawyer Beeler, Catherine McAninch, and Sidney Bernard. The show will begin at 6 p.m. on Dec. 13 and 14, and at 1:30 p.m. on Dec. 15. Admission is $5.

Liberty’s downtown Christmas celebration planned for Dec. 6

By Larry Rowell
Editor

With the Thanksgiving holiday in the books and everyone looking to Christmas, what better way to kick off the festive season than attending the Downtown Christmas Celebration in Liberty.

This year’s celebration, with the theme “A Story Book Christmas,” will be from 5-7 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 6.

As in years past, the celebration will feature a lighted Christmas parade, live music, wagon rides, vendors, an auction, free food and drinks, and the event is capped off with a visit from jolly old Saint Nick, said Blaine Staat, Director of the Liberty-Casey County Chamber of Commerce.

Staat said that the parade, which has gotten better and better each year, is the big-

Coppage joins Casey County News staff

By Katelynn Griffin
Staff Writer

The Casey County News is welcoming a new staff member.

Delton Coppage, 63, of Liberty will begin delivering newspapers this week. He will be responsible for the delivery and distribution of the newspaper.

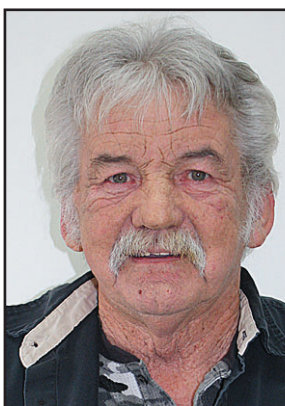

Coppage worked for Lowe’s as an accountant and after 25 years, he has since retired.

The Casey County News General Manager/Advertising Sales Manager Brittany Emerson said she is glad to welcome Coppage to the staff.

“We are so excited that Delton has joined our team,” she said. “He brings a great knowledge of the county and a wealth of experience.”

As a long time Casey County resident, Delton said he is eager to deliver the news to the county.

“Delivering the news is very important,” Coppage said.

“You can put the paper together, but if someone doesn’t deliver it, it doesn’t matter.”

As a self-described people person, Coppage said he knows someone at every stop on his route.

“I like people and some good laughs. It’s about the camaraderie with friends,” Coppage said.

Coppage will be replacing Ken Neilson, who recently retired after delivering The Casey County News for 15 years.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Nothing better than country cooking

In regards to Joberta Wells' column on Nov. 27, I agree with her statement about Brussels sprouts. But mustard greens, no way. Cook them with smoked ham with soup beans and cornbread on the side. It can't be beat.

The only thing from the garden to compare with this would be white runner green beans also cooked with ham chunks with fresh okra cut into 1/8 inch pieces, rolled in flour and fried.

This type cooking will make a country boy love his wife just a tad more.

'Tis the season to watch classic movies

The days are shorter and colder making the holiday season a perfect time to snuggle up on the couch and watch a movie, if you are lucky enough to find the time to do so.

On my shelf at home are several of my favorite books (yes, I still read those) and movies. Some of the more recent titles include the last three James Bond movies—Daniel Craig is fantastic, is he not? That's another column all together. The 2010 "Wolfman" movie, season one of A&Es "The Glades," and season one of AMCs "The Walking Dead," but other than those few movies the rest are older films. A majority of them are in black and white, true classics.

I'm talking old school titles and old school names. Names like Humphrey Bogart, Robert Mitchum, John Wayne, Cary Grant, Paul Newman, and Steve McQueen. A collection of names that very few people remember, much less anyone under the age of 40.

By far my favorite is the 1942 classic "Casablanca" featuring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman. A masterpiece with Nazis, WWII turmoil, an American bar owner with a mysterious past, and the meeting of a former lover. Doesn't get much better than that. Well actually it does—last year was the 70th celebration of the film. Myself and four other people got to view the movie on the big screen in the theater. Sweet!

Another favorite starring Bogart is "The Maltese Falcon (1941)." while it may not have earned any special honors or awards, it's a great movie nonetheless. The dialogue is witty and fun, the plot is great, and the actors were fantastic. If you enjoy fedora and trench coat wearing detectives, this movie fits the bill.

Maybe a few of you have seen the epic classic "Gone With the Wind" (1939) starring Clarke Gable, Vivien Leigh, and Leslie Howard. I'll admit, it's a bit lengthy but the characters are memorable. If you haven't watched it, you're really missing out.

There are several Christmas classics worth watching this season. Don't get me wrong, I like the animated movies, especially the Miser brother characters from "The Year Without a Santa Claus" and the Grinch, but the old one's are worth watching too.

Bing Crosby was great in "The Holiday Inn," the 1942 classic that also starred Fred Astaire. Crosby would return in another holiday classic, "White Christmas" (1954). Both films were originally in black and white, but have since been digitally remastered. Color versions are available, but I still recommend the colorless version. People may be more familiar with James Stewart's 1946 classic "It's a Wonderful Life."

Some television stations will play these classics, but if not, you can find them in stores. The next time it's cold, windy, and perhaps snowing, make some popcorn and put in one of these classic films. You may like it, hate it, or get a good laugh out of it.

In closing, this is what we have learned: black and white films are by far the best, Daniel Craig is an awesome James Bond, books are still worth reading, and the classics are still worth watching.

Tales from the life of a good lawman

I was saddened to learn last week of the passing of former Sheriff Carl Meece. I had the pleasure of talking with him several times during the last five years.

Although I hardly knew him, I'd heard and read enough stories about his two decades of service as a law enforcement officer to know that he was a lawman's lawman.

The man is a legend and as his good friend Tommy Weddle told me, the stories from Carl's law enforcement days will probably be retold 100 years from now.

Even if he wasn't very tall, what I've heard over and over was Meece was a lawman who wasn't afraid of anyone, in any situation.

There's one particular story about Carl being alone and having to arrest five men and he did it. I've also heard it was seven men.

No matter, I've combed the archives of The Casey County News and read the stories about the large number of drug, alcohol, and DUI arrests he made in his career.

Carl was also interviewed by William Lynwood Montell and is featured prominently in his book, "Tales From Kentucky Sheriffs."

One particular story Carl told was about answering a call where someone had thrown a beer bottle and hit a woman's car parked at her house.

Carl, who said that he didn't carry a gun many times because he had back problems, got to the scene that night and had barely gotten out of his car when a man he knew charged him.

"He was wanting to fight, but was not going to jail. He took a pop at me, and I hit him hard and finally addled him pretty good and then snaked him to the car and put him in the back seat," Meece said.

Carl had arrested another man at the scene several days before and he also wanted to challenge Meece to another fight.

"He was a great big guy, and was very dangerous. He said, 'Carl Meece, you have to kill me this time. I told you I'd never go to jail if you are against it, so you are going to have to kill me tonight,'" the man said.

Meece told the man that they'd already had several fights.

"You might not go to jail, but one of us will go somewhere," Meece said. "He said, 'I'm not going to jail. You're going to have to beat me to death,'" the man told Meece.

About that time, Meece said that another man in the crowd stepped up and told the man wanting to fight Meece that the fighting was over.

"Carl Meece ain't going to have to whip you tonight. I told you when you hit that woman's car with that beer bottle we would all wind up going to jail. Now you're going to jail, my three brothers-in-law are going to jail, and anybody that wants to fight has got to whip me first," the man said.

"They all loaded up and we had a happy ole time going to Liberty," Meece said.

Sheriff Meece, I've had a "happy ole time" hearing about and reading your stories. Thanks for putting your life on the line to protect the good citizens of Casey County for more than 20 years. You did it well and now, you've left a legacy that your family and friends can be proud of.

I just hope that people will be telling your stories 100 years from now. They deserve to live on.

No escaping the reality of global warming

I sat down to the evening news. That's not always the best thing to do if you want to unwind for the day, which was my intent.

I had been to a conference sponsored by the Sustainable Religious Lands Committee of the Festival of Faiths. In partnership with the Center for Interfaith Relations and Bellarmine University's Campus Ministry, I had heard speakers address issues intended to raise our awareness of the alarmingly high environmental and human risks resulting from the much-acclaimed national "Energy Independence" boom. Speakers underscored how a new generation of fossil fuel extraction infrastructures threatens the health of our planet. This holds particular relevance for me, a resident of central Kentucky, because the proposed Bluegrass Pipeline carrying dangerous fracking material that if spilled could harm people and the land is scheduled to be operational in our region by December, 2015.

Although the conference had been most helpful and hopeful, I was a bit overwhelmed.

And so I slouched down to the evening news, which I caught in progress, just in time to listen to Anne Thompson's report, "Unbearable Neighbors."

Cute title, I thought. I'll relax.

She reported how for many years tourists have gathered in the small northern Canadian town of Churchill to watch the gathering of polar bears. The bears and the people coexist from late June when the ice disappears around Hudson Bay to late November when it reforms. But the ice is reconstituting about a month later these days, causing the bears to endure the land that much longer without their main food source: ring seal, which thrive in the sea ice.

"Greenhouse gases threaten the existence of the polar bears," said Dr. Steven Amstrup, chief scientist for Polar Bear International.

I jumped up and proclaimed to my wife that I had heard about this at the conference.

"The Unbearable Neighbors?" she asked, "No, the sea ice," I exclaimed.

One of the conference speakers, Samuel Avery, had spoken of what scientists call "positive feedback loops," associated with the earth's climate. A positive feedback loop is basically an effect that makes itself worse, and ice melt is one of those positive feedback loops. Sea ice helps keep the earth cool because its shiny surface reflects 80 percent of the incoming solar energy back into the atmosphere. But as ice melts, the water's darker surface reflects only 5 percent of the sunlight, absorbing the other 95 percent, which in turn heats our planet even more, causing more ice to melt, which leads to more absorption.

Once it gets started, it's hard to stop. So here is the conundrum: How can we, as addicted as we are to fossil fuels, reverse a trend that mightily marches toward wrecking our climate?

If you refuse to stick your head in the sand, pretending global warming doesn't exist and poses no real threat to life as we know it, you too feel at least a little frustrated about untangling the mess we humans have made on our little planet we call Earth.

Speakers at the conference didn't only describe the problem, they offered solutions as well. But there is no silver bullet, no quick, easy fix to what we've created on this, the Lord's creation. As I was reminded by the evening news, environmental issues related to greenhouse gases are interrelated. They affect seals and polar bears and weather patterns and drinking water.

Finding answers will require a paradigm shift — a different way of thinking. Viewing the environment as a trust God has given us to care for and develop and not as a mere commodity to be exploited for our personal gain and profit is a start in changing our direction.

Perhaps recognizing that God not only owns "the cattle on a thousand hills" (Psalm 50:10), but the land beneath their feet as well will remind us that we are after all only renters, stewards of this earth; God is the owner.

And harming one part of his property — yes, even a small piece of land beneath what appears to be a harmless pipeline — affects the whole.

You can't escape that fact. Not even by watching the evening news.

Christmas

gest draw for attendees.
Trophies and prize money will be awarded for the top five floats in the parade. First place will receive $500; second, $400; third, $300; fourth, $200; and fifth, $100.

Since Poplar Springs Fire Department won the traveling first-place trophy last year, they won't be eligible to win this year. However, they will bring Santa into town on their firetruck in the parade.

Individuals also have an opportunity to show off their wreath making skills by entering the wreath contest.

Contestants can make a wreath, of any materials or size, and turn it into City Hall by 4 p.m. on Friday to be entered in the contest. Judges will then choose the top three winners who based their creations on the Story Book Christmas theme as well as the construction, originality, and overall appearance. Prizes of $100, $50, and $25, will be awarded.

The wreaths, along with other donated items, will be auctioned off at 5:45 p.m., with the proceeds benefiting the Casey County Community Ministries' Toys for Kids program. Official rules and an entry form are available at the chamber office at City Hall, or by calling 787-7106.

Staat said that local vendors — selling arts, crafts, pies and cakes, among others — will set up booths from 4-8 p.m. in the building next to SnapDolls, located across the street from the courthouse. For more information about vendors who plan to set up on Friday, contact Deva Hair at 787-5355.

The celebration begins at 5 p.m. with the closing of the downtown streets around Courthouse Square.

The Casey County Pork Producers will serve free chili and a host of local sponsors — Casey County Bank, Monticello Banking Company, Farmers Deposit Bank, State Farm Insurance, Lifeline Home Health, and Sweet Beans and Things — will offer hot dogs, coffee, hot chocolate, cider, cookies, popcorn, candy canes and more, while it lasts.

The lighted parade will start at 6:30 p.m. at Liberty Elementary School and go west on Middleburg Street, circle around Courthouse Square, then down Hustonville Street.

Santa Claus will round out the back of the parade and be available in the courthouse after the parade for pictures with the children.

"Everybody gets one free picture," Staat said. "The picture will be available at City Hall the following Monday, on Dec. 9."

For those wanting to enter a float in the parade, contact Dale Hoskins at 303-3315.

Editor's Note: Due to a 70 percent chance of rain on Friday, a decision will be made on Thursday afternoon whether to postpone the event until the following Friday, Dec. 13. Visit www.caseynews.net or The Casey County News Facebook page for updates.

Sheriff's department seeking driver of vehicle who drove through cemetery

By Larry Rowell
Editor

The Casey County Sheriff's Office is seeking the driver of a vehicle who drove through a cemetery fence on Thursday, destroying two headstones and damaging a third.

According to a report filed by Deputy Chad Weddle, the unknown driver of a 1993 tan, two-door Nissan Sentra sedan was headed west on Cale Brown Road when it failed to stop at the intersection of Cale Brown Road and Caney Fork Road.

The car then crossed Caney Fork Road and hit the fence surrounding the Caney Fork Cemetery, entering the cemetery and damaging the headstones. The driver left the car and fled the scene, Weddle said.

Rodney Crawley, the owner of the car, told Weddle that his daughter, Shanie Crawley, usually drove the car.

Shanie said that she left the car at Atwood's Grocery the day before the accident and said she didn't know who took the car or was driving it.

Weddle said that the damage to the cemetery exceeds $500.

Anyone with information about this accident is asked to contact the Casey County Sheriff's Department at (606) 787-6821.

No Democratic candidates have filed to run for office in the county.

Meece

the plots to try and catch the culprits growing the illegal drug.

"We'd stay out there two or three nights if we had good evidence showing they were coming in there and setting up tents. We'd find sleeping bags and stuff that was evidence," Mings said, adding that if Meece wasn't able to capture the growers, the marijuana would be cut down and destroyed.

Intelligence

Others spoke to Meece's high level of intelligence and his uncanny ability to remember and process that information.

Dennis Allen, a deputy who worked with Meece beginning in 1989, said that Meece knew Casey County.

"Carl was knowledgeable about things that went on in the community and who people associated with. He had a real good mind and exercised that mind by keeping it up to date like we do a computer," Allen said.

Weddle said that some in the county believed

Meece's effectiveness as sheriff came from a sixth sense concerning where criminal activity was happening.

"But I don't attribute his effectiveness to this. I attribute this to the fact that Carl was smart and he had one of the best information networks of any law enforcement officers I've ever known," Weddle said.

Additionally, Mings said that Meece was a gifted interrogator.

"He was good at reverse psychology and he could get more stuff out of people than anybody I ever knew," he said.

Also, Mings said that Meece was well known for his willingness to cooperate with other state and federal law enforcement agencies.

"He had a good rapport working with state and federal agents. There was one FBI agent who just loved coming to Casey County and working with Carl. He even came for his retirement," Mings said.

Fearless

Despite being less than 5 feet 7 inches tall, Meece wasn't afraid to arrest, and fight, if necessary, men much larger.

"Carl was very strong. People would come out to whip him and he didn't worry about it. I guess they thought they had something to prove if they were big and strong and good fighters and they thought they could whip Carl Meece and have bragging rights for a while," Allen said, adding that some members of his own family said they wanted to fight Meece but never did.

On one occasion, Weddle asked Meece about his size and his ability to arrest anyone, often by himself.

"You know Tommy, I was always small. When you're small, you get picked on a lot. I either had to learn to fight or get whipped every day so I chose to learn to fight," Weddle said.

However, there was one battle that Meece would lose, and that to the cancer, which claimed his life.

"Other than a fear of contracting cancer, it's the only thing that man ever indicated to me he was the least bit afraid of. That's the only fight that I know he ever lost," Weddle said.

CORRECTIONS & CLARIFICATIONS

■ In a Nov. 20 article about the annexation of property into the City of Liberty, the Casey County Industrial Development Co. Inc. was incorrectly cited as the Casey County Industrial Development Authority. The CCID Co. Inc. is composed of President Micah Beard, Secretary Billye Hansford, and Directors Mark Beard, Deborah Beard, and Jerry King, according to Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes office in Frankfort.

The CCID Authority, jointly administered by the City Of Liberty and Casey County Fiscal Court, is classified as a "Special Purpose Government Entity" by State Auditor Adam Edelen's office, also in Frankfort.

■ In a Nov. 27 article about the Toys for Kids program, the distribution date was listed as Dec. 15 and should have been Dec. 14.

■ In the election filings update, Ralph Mondie, candidate for District 2 constable, was incorrectly listed as Ralph Monday.

■ Otis Patton was reported as deceased in the Casey County museum article in last week's issue. Patton is not deceased.

Carl Meece, 72

Carl Meece of Ky. 910 in Casey County passed away on Tuesday, Nov. 26, 2013 at his residence with his family by his side. He was 72.

Born Friday, April 25, 1941 in Casey County, he was a son of the late Henry and Sylvia Richardson Meece.

Carl was a farmer and a member of the Baptist faith. He served as Deputy Sheriff for four years under Ray Overstreet and then served as Sheriff of Casey County for 16 years. Carl also served as Casey County Judge-Executive for four years. He was also a former member of the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include his dear wife, whom he wed on Aug. 28, 1958, Carol Roy Meece; two sons, Mike and Mark Meece, both of Liberty; a brother, Doug (and Janice) Meece of Windsor; a sister, Gola Mae McDonald of Danville, Ind.; and two grandchildren, Chad and Shelby Meece.

Kentucky State Police offer winter driving tips

Kentuckians are being dealt a wintery forecast to kick off the Thanksgiving holiday travel weekend. KSP is asking motorists to be aware that weather conditions may change rapidly over the four-day holiday.

"Winter weather provides new challenges and responsibilities to the public and the Kentucky State Police," says KSP spokesman Sgt. Michael Webb.

"We ask drivers to be prepared to meet the challenges of the upcoming winter driving season. Plan ahead, be sure everyone in the vehicle is properly restrained, drive defensively and ensure their vehicle is properly maintained to handle the effects of cold temperatures."

KSP reports that slippery roads were the contributing factor in 12,034 crashes and 72 fatalities in

Here are a few simple steps to help keep you on the road and less stressed — Avoid travel unless necessary when winter weather is in your area; Slow down; Always wear your seat belt.

Driving Considerations

Leave early — allow more travel time; expect delays.

Increase distance between vehicles — it takes significantly longer to stop on snow covered or icy roadways.

Clear all windows on your vehicle prior to travel — having unobstructed vision is vital to avoid running off of the road or having a collision.

Turn on your vehicle's headlights. Remove any dirt, mud or snow.

Use caution on bridges and overpasses as they are susceptible to freezing before roadways.

Avoid using cruise control — cruise can cause the vehicle's wheels to continue turning on a slippery surface when speed needs to be decreased.

Be Prepared

Ensure your vehicle has a full tank of gas in the event you are stranded for an extended period of time.

Charge your cellular phone prior to departure.

Take a blanket.

Notify a family member or a friend of your travel plans prior to departure — if you travel is interrupted, someone will know

Collision Information

Be patient — bad weather also limits the capabilities of law enforcement officers and emergency crews and increases response time. Also, keep in mind that they will be experiencing a high volume of requests for service.

Attempt to move your vehicle out of the roadway if you are involved in a minor, non-injury traffic collision; especially if you are in a dangerous area such as a curve or a blind hill.

If your vehicle is stranded or wrecked but not in the roadway, attempts to recover your vehicle will have to wait until conditions improve for safety considerations.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555.

Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

NEWS FROM AROUND Kentucky

Stanford men accused of breaking into police car

The Advocate Messenger reports that a pair of Stanford men have been indicted on charges they broke into an undercover detective's vehicle, destroyed evidence and stole a firearm. Gerald Burchfield Jr., 22, and Dustin Hensley, 18, face charges of theft by unlawful taking, theft of a state police handgun, tampering with physical evidence and unlawful transactions with a minor. Burchfield, Hensley and an unnamed minor allegedly broke into KSP Detective Brandon Curlis' unmarked police cruiser on or about Oct. 9 or 10, according to court case files.

According to arrest citations, Burchfield and Hensley have confessed to knowing the vehicle was an undercover police vehicle and that there was a firearm inside. They also confessed to destroying a laptop and digital recorder "in an attempt not to get caught," according to the citations.

State police spokesman Trooper Robert Purdy said the investigation is being handled by KSP's Drug Enforcement Special Investigations unit.

The men broke into the vehicle while it was parked at Curlis' home, Purdy said. The men were located "within a couple days" after the crime was committed. Purdy said DESI likely will not release additional information about what cases may have been impacted by the destruction of evidence. Burchfield and Hensley are being held without bond in the Lincoln County Regional Jail.

High school assault smacks of 'knockout game'

A North Hardin High School student was arrested and charged with assault for throwing a punch that resembled the "knockout game" that recently has drawn national attention.

Radcliff police were made aware of the incident by school officials. The attack also was recorded on a cell phone and police were able to see the video. Police spokesman Bryce Shumate confirmed the incident happened in a classroom on school grounds and said from what he understands, the assault was unprovoked.

"From what I understand, the one student was sitting in a chair and he was hit and knocked out of the chair," Shumate said. "According to our officer, the person was not expecting to be hit. It wasn't a fight or a scuffle."

According to an MSN.com report, the "knockout game," as it has been called, works like this: Teens punch a stranger, hoping to send the victim into unconsciousness with a single blow, generally while being filmed for posting on social media.

The North Hardin student accused of delivering the blow is a male juvenile and has been charged with fourth-degree assault. Shumate said the blow caused minor injury and the boy who was hit was not taken from school to seek treatment.

Hiring of Montgomery superintendent's wife questioned

The Lexington Herald Leader reported that state Auditor Adam Edelen is investigating a complaint over whether the Montgomery County school board violated state nepotism laws when it hired the superintendent's wife as director of special projects/exceptional children, spokeswoman Stephenie Hoelscher said.

Hoelscher said the office had requested documents from the district and was conducting interviews.

"Our work is continuing," Hoelscher said. "We would like to speed up the process and would hope that district officials would want to do the same and would cooperate fully with the examination."

Anna Powell, wife of Superintendent Joshua Powell, began her job this month, after being selected by a Montgomery County school district hiring committee.

The state's anti-nepotism law says that no relative of a school superintendent shall be an employee of the school district. But there are exceptions. A superintendent's spouse may be an employee of the district if he or she has at least eight years of service in school systems and if he or she doesn't supervise certified or classified employees. Montgomery County officials said the hiring of Anna Powell meets that criteria.

"I'm not sure why the state auditor's office is investigating something of that nature," Joshua Powell said. "There is absolutely no conflict, which is supported by Kentucky statute," he said. "We followed every rule, regulation and went above and beyond any procedure that was required."

Murray man charged with DUI, manslaughter

A Murray man faces charges of second-degree manslaughter and DUI after police say he was involved in a two-vehicle collision that left one woman dead, according to an article in the Murray Ledger & Times.

Marshall County Sheriff's Office deputies responded to an accident on U.S. 68/Ky. Hwy. 80 at about 5:30 Thursday morning in Aurora. According to the MCSO, Deputy Steven Oakley arrested Jeffery Nelson of Murray after police determined he had been allegedly traveling the wrong direction, striking another vehicle turning left onto the four-lane highway. The driver of the other vehicle, Megan Mc-Coy was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Dep. Coroner Barry Taylor.

The MCSO reported McCoy had crossed the two west-bound lanes of the highway where U.S. 68 splits from Ky. Hwy. 80. Police said Nelson, who was reported to be traveling eastbound on the westward portion of Hwy. 80 struck McCoy's vehicle on the driver's side.

Nelson was lodged in the Marshall County Detention Center where he remained as of press time.

Warren students help create 'report a bully' web form

Rylee Turner, a sixth-grader at Warren County's Bristow Elementary School, says some people are afraid to speak out about bullying, according to an article in the Bowling Green Daily News.

Rylee's done something about it. She's what school officials call a "first responder." First responders usually bring to mind firefighters, police officers and emergency medical technicians.

However, the school defines its first responders as children who see a potentially unsafe situation and respond to it, deciding whether it is something they want to handle or choose to tell a teacher or an adult.

Rylee and Hailey Crow, also a Bristow sixth-grader, worked on creating a special form online where people can report a bully. The website is accessible to students and parents. The kids are part of the Student Technology Leadership Program at Bristow and they worked with Leah Renfrow, a fifth-grade teacher, and Amy Buss, media specialist, to develop the form from the Google Drive computer program.

Rylee said it took about half an hour to design the form. Renfrow said the form idea stemmed from a parents' meeting about a month ago.

"We wanted to better improve safety response. This is a systematic way for parents and students to report bullying," Renfrow said. "We wanted to take an opportunity to make a teachable moment. This doesn't take the place of verbal reporting."

Buss said the form provides the kids with another way to communicate to a teacher.

"You don't have to be visibly seen to report to teachers," Buss said.

The two-page form is for bullying that takes place during school hours on school property, noting the school cannot investigate incidents that take place outside of school or not on school property. It asks for information on names, time, date and place of the bullying and asks for a description of the incident.

Bardstown principal cleared of whiskey theft

Bardstown High School Principal Chris Pickett has reportedly been dropped as a person of interest in the investigation of the theft of thousands of dollars worth of Pappy Van Winkle bourbon.

Several media organizations reported over the weekend that the Franklin County Sheriff's Office had told them he was no longer being looked at. But on Nov. 26, Pickett's spokesman, Bardstown attorney Doug Hubbard, said neither he nor his client had been formally informed.

"All our information is based on what we've read and saw in the newspaper," Hubbard said.

Several media organizations, including The Courier-Journal, WHAS TV and The State-Journal in Frankfort, have reported Pickett had been dropped as a person of interest.

Messages with the Franklin County Sheriff's Office left by the Kentucky Standard on Nov. 25 had not been returned by press time the next day.

Hubbard said before he or his client spoke with any media organizations they wanted to see what information would come out in a press conference scheduled for Monday by the Franklin County Sheriff's Office.

Franklin County Sheriff Pat Melton has said he will make a "significant announcement" concerning the investigation at Monday's press conference.

Pickett was named a person of interest in October after he was seen on a video surveillance tape entering an Elizabethtown liquor store. Investigators said an employee of the store reported that the man later identified as Pickett was trying to sell a "large quantity" of Pappy. Police released footage of the video seeking the public's help in identifying the man in the video. Pickett was out of town on a previously scheduled trip when he learned from friends back home that his image was being shown on television and websites as a person of interest. Given Pappy's cachet and notoriety among bourbon enthusiasts and the general public, the case spread quickly across the Internet and across the globe.

A person of interest is different than a suspect. Oftentimes police name persons of interest in cases when they only want to interview someone. Pickett and his attorney maintain the high school principal and bourbon collector was looking to purchase the much sought-after spirit.

Buffalo Trace reported Oct. 15 that 195 bottles of the 20-year Pappy had disappeared from the distillery, as well as nine cases of its rye bourbon. Investigators have estimated the value of the missing liquor at about $26,000, although that is based on retail prices. Pappy is a very rare bourbon that often fetches many times the amount of its suggested retail price. Some bottles have fetched upwards of $1,000.

HOROSCOPES

Dec. 4-10

CAPRICORN

December 22-January 19

Expect to be busy for the rest of the month, Capricorn. With potential birthday celebrations and holiday tasks to complete, spare moments are few and far between.

TAURUS

April 20-May 20

Assume the role of the strong and silent type this week, Taurus. You do not have to share your opinions with everyone, as an air of mystery may boost your popularity.

VIRGO

August 23-September 22

Virgo, getting involved with the right people now opens doors that previously may have been closed to you. Do not squander the opportunity to use these new contacts.

AQUARIUS

January 20-February 18

Aquarius, learning a new skill this week will only add to your already vast repertoire of abilities. This is one more reason to have a positive attitude.

GEMINI

May 21-June 21

It can be easy to allow excitement to overtake your logic, Gemini. But you need to be patient and not allow exuberance to interfere with the tasks at hand. That is a recipe for trouble.

LIBRA

September 23-October 22

Libra, conflicting emotions arise in the week ahead. You have the desire to fulfill people's expectations of you, but you also just want some time to yourself.

PISCES

February 19-March 20

Emphasize feeling good about yourself this week, Pisces. Doing so will enable you to help others in the near future.

CANCER

June 22-July 22

Cancer, a hefty workload at the office may zap your desire to do much else. However, don't pass up the opportunity when a social engagement beckons this week.

SCORPIO

October 23-November 21

Scorpio, maintaining your focus on chores is nearly impossible this week, when you are easily distracted by anything else that sounds interesting. Try to get your work done.

ARIES

March 21-April 19

Aries, delay your plans for the time being. A number of unexpected tasks that will require your undivided attention in the coming day, so clear your schedule.

LEO

July 23-August 22

Leo, you will have to continue your rather hectic pace this week, even when you start to feel tired. Fortunately, you are excited about some of the things on your to-do

SAGITTARIUS

November 22-December 21

Reestablish your priorities, Sagittarius. Doing so will help you live up to your end of the bargain on various commitments. If necessary, ask others for help.

Good hand hygiene promotes good health

As the winter season begins, individuals will be exposed more often to the germs that cause colds or the flu.

It is always better to prevent an illness than to deal with its symptoms and possibly spread it to someone else. The single most effective way to prevent the spread of dangerous germs is by following good hand hygiene.

Dr. Cassie TYNER

Individuals should wash their hands often, especially during the winter months, and always at the following times:

- Before, during and after preparing food
- Before eating and after using the bathroom
- After handling animals or animal waste
- When hands are dirty and more frequently when someone in the home is sick

You can also help to prevent the spread of germs by not coughing or sneezing into your hands. Instead, try to get in the habit of using a tissue or the bend of your elbow to catch the germs from a cough or sneeze.

You should also avoid putting your fingers in your eyes, nose or mouth.

The most effective hand washing technique is to use warm water and soap, rubbing hands together for at least 15 seconds ... enough time to sing the alphabet song. Your hands should then be rinsed well and dried.

In situations where soap and water are not available, an alcohol-based hand gel may be used for cleaning your hands unless they are visibly soiled.

13 die on Kentucky roadways Nov. 25-Dec. 1

Preliminary statistics indicate that 13 people died in 12 separate crashes on Kentucky's roadways from Monday, Nov. 25 through Sunday, Dec. 1, 2013.

Four fatalities occurred prior to the start of the Thanksgiving holiday reporting period.

One single fatality motor vehicle crash occurred in each of the following counties: Boone, Calloway, Jefferson, and Whitley. The victim in Jefferson County was not wearing a seat belt. The crash in Whitley County involved the suspected use of alcohol.

Seven fatalities were reported as the result of six motor vehicle crashes during the Thanksgiving holiday period, which started at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 27 and ended at 11:59 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 1.

One double fatality crash occurred in Green County. One single fatality crash occurred in each of the following counties: Graves, Knox, Marshall, Owsley and Warren.

The victims in Graves, Owsley and Warren counties were not wearing seat belts. The crashes in Marshall, Owsley and Warren counties involved the suspected use of alcohol.

Also reported during the holiday period was one motorcycle fatality in Daviess County and one pedestrian killed in Jefferson County as the result of a crash involving the suspected use of alcohol.

In 2012, 1,064 traffic crashes occurred throughout Kentucky during the Thanksgiving holiday period, claiming seven lives and injuring 202 people.

Through Dec. 1, preliminary statistics indicate that 586 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2013. This is 98 fewer than reported for this time period in 2012. Of the 451 motor vehicle fatalities, 225 victims were not wearing seat belts. Of the 72 motorcycle fatalities, 44 were not wearing a helmet. Ten of the 10 ATV fatalities were not wearing a helmet.

Forty-nine pedestrians and three bicycle riders have been killed. One fatality involving an animal drawn vehicle has been reported. A total of 132 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol. As of Dec. 1, Kentucky has had 73 days with zero highway fatalities reported during 2013.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

Helping your child succeed in school

Children need encouragement and support to succeed in school, and there is no better source for that support than from the family. Getting involved in your child’s education can be rewarding for both you and your child.

PARTICIPATE in school activities. Visit your child’s classroom. Consult with your child’s teacher. Get involved with the school in every way you can. Lend a helping hand.

ADMIRE your child for being himself/herself. Build up their strengths and help them improve their weaknesses. Let them know you love them for who s/he is – your child.

READ with your child: street signs, billboards, store window signs, grocery lists, directions, map books, magazines, newspapers, and cartoons. See that they spend as much time reading as they spend watching television.

ENCOURAGE your child to develop hobbies and interests such as sports, music, collections, pets, art, pen pals, scrapbooks, photography, handcrafts, model building or sewing. Encourage your child to meet friends who may have the same interests.

NOTE your child’s progress with verbal praise and a pat on the shoulder. Let them know you are proud of their progresses, even if it’s a little bit.

AWALYS BE POSITIVE. Never compare your child’s progress with another child’s progress.

TALK with your child about school, likes and dislikes, places you go and things you do together. Encourage your child to ask questions and give answers.

SUPPORT your child’s need and desire to learn and to enjoy reading by following all of the above listed suggestions.

General Homework Tips

Quiet Study: Choose a place for home study and make sure the room is quiet during that time. Creating a quiet place goes a long way toward helping your children learn.

Regular Schedule: Set up a certain time of day that is dedicated to homework. Follow up with your children to be sure homework is complete and turned in on time.

Be Positive About Homework: Tell your child how important school is. The attitude you express about homework will be the attitude your child acquires.

Learn Together: If you want your children to read their assignments, give yourself an assignment, too. When it’s time for them to do homework, take a break and spend a few minutes reading a book, magazine, or newspaper.

Learn Everywhere: Increase your children’s interest in homework by connecting school to everyday life. For instance, your children can learn fractions and measurements while you prepare favorite foods together.

Meet Their Teachers: Meet with your children’s teachers to find out what they are learning and discuss their progress in school.

Praise Helps: Praise your children for successfully completing homework. Nothing encourages children more than praise from their parents.

When Your Child Asks for Help, Provide Guidance, Not Answers: Giving answers means your child will not learn the material. Too much help teaches your child that when the going gets rough, someone will do the work for him or her.

Reward Progress in Homework: If your child has been successful in homework completion and is working hard, celebrate that success with a special event (e.g., pizza, a walk, a trip to the park) to reinforce the positive effort.

Helping With Math

Look for shapes and patterns in real life

Have your child measure ingredients for a recipe you are making

Ask your child to explain the math skills he or she is working on in school

When helping your child with homework or school assignments, ask him or her to explain how he or she got an answer

Help your child find some appropriate number and problem-solving games to play online

Play card or board games that involve counting or patterns

Ask your child to count change at the grocery store, or to estimate the total cost while you are shopping

Compare: Which is the tallest? the heaviest? the smallest? the fastest? the hottest? the most expensive?

Have tools such as a ruler, a scale, a calculator, and a measuring tape available to use in your house.

Encourage your child to track or graph scores or stats for a favorite sports team

Use dice to make a game out of practicing math facts

Finding Time for Reading

Set aside the same time each night for reading and writing (before bed, after dinner). By establishing a routine, we continue to have time for that routine without feeling stressed out.

Involve other adults. Use your spouse, grandparents, sitters, neighbors, older children.

Think of ways that you can “kill two birds with one stone.” Have your child read or write at the table while you are preparing a meal or cleaning up. Use the “waiting time” in stores, at an appointment, in the car, etc.

Remember that there will be a “pay off” for time spent now. Helping your children get on the right road to reading and writing takes time. But once children become independent readers and confident writers, they will be able to spend time alone enjoying reading and writing.

Common Core State Standards

Regardless of whether a student decides they want to attend college or not, it should be our hope that all students be prepared for and have access to college. There are skills every 12th grader must have to be successful in this ever changing, technological world. The standards raise the expectations of education and allow the student to decide the path they want to take regardless of zip code. The standards allow every student an opportunity to be on the same playing field. Parents need to know that the focuses in their student’s classrooms are different as their child will have to explain concepts and defend their answers instead of just knowing the answers.

Parent Resources

Parent resources, including links to useful websites, can be found under the “Parent Resources” tab of the Casey County Schools website www.casey.kyschools.us.

Read to Me

Read to me riddles and read to me rhymes.

Read to me stories of magical times.

Read to me tales about castles and kings.

Read to me stories of fabulous things.

Read to me pirates and read to me knights.

Read to me dragons and dragon-book fights.

Read to me spaceships and cowboys and then,

When you are finished - - please read them again.

Thank You

I want to thank everyone for all of the support that has been given to my family and me since my cancer diagnosis. I also want to thank my family, my friends and even complete strangers who worked so hard on my “Keep Calm & Ride On Rally” on Oct. 11. Much appreciation to local businesses whose donations made the rally possible. To say that that night was one of the most amazing nights of my life would be an understatement. Thanks again, everyone! I feel so lucky to be apart of this wonderful community.
Sincerely, Tonya Hame

Rebels drop a heartbreaker in season opener, 77-75

Often down to Marion, Rebels lose on last second shot

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

Whether or not Rebel fans came into the team's first game with high or low expectations, the two-point loss in Casey's home basketball opener was far from boring. Casey County High School boys' basketball team fell 77-75 to Marion County Monday in the team's first game of the season.

Marion put in a basket with two seconds left in the game that gave them the lead and the win.

After the game, Rebels Coach Maze Stallworth said he was pleased with his team's effort.

"I believe they actually played better in this game than they have in the two scrimmages. I was really impressed," said Stallworth. "They really stepped up and made better decisions in the game than they did in earlier games."

Casey saw Marion pull ahead by as many as nine points multiple times, but always managed to fight their way back into the game, until taking a strong six point lead late in the third quarter.

However, foul trouble, missed free throws and unnecessary turnovers made the difference in the loss.

Casey racked up nearly 30 fouls to Marion's 25, which resulted in both teams shooting more than 30 free throws.

"It was a lot of fouls and we've got to adjust to it. It's the rules so we've got to get used to it. We can't use that as an excuse. They get fouls like we get fouls," Stallworth said.

The Knights put up the first points of the game only 20 seconds into play, with the Rebels trailing until the 6:07 mark in the opening quarter.

Four points from freshman Breece Hayes and two from freshman Collin Miller put Casey up 6-4.

The lead was short-lived as Marion put up eight unanswered points before Hayes ended Casey's dry spell, making the score 12-8.

On the next possession, the Knight's put up their third three-pointer of the evening. Casey again cut their lead to only four with 34 seconds to play, but a shot just before the buzzer put Marion ahead 21-15 at the end of the first quarter.

2nd quarter

Things did not begin well the opening of the second quarter.

Zach Scott picked up his third foul only 18 seconds into play, sending him to the bench for the remainder of the half. Seven seconds later Marion drained another three-point shot, taking a 24-18 lead.

With the help of treys, Marion saw two nine-point leads over the next four minutes. However, Casey never let those leads get to double digits.

A three-pointer by Jake Smith followed by a basket from Jordan Brown cut the Marion lead, with Casey trailing by only five at the half, 43-38.

"I just told them to shake it off," Stallworth said about his locker room talk at half time. "This was the first half they've played together as a team. The first game of our new legacy of what's about to happen. I said, 'Shake it off. Let's get out there and attack them like they're attacking us.'"

3rd quarter

And attack is exactly what the Rebels did, putting up four points in the first minute to cut the lead to one, 43-42.

While Scott's fourth foul could have put a damper on the Rebel momentum, Smith instead drained a three to tie the game for the first time of the night, 45-45.

Miller followed it a minute later with a three of his own for Casey to go up 48-45 at the 4:52 mark, their first lead since the opening minutes of the game.

After tying the score at 48-48, Smith drew back-to-back fouls and added four points from free throws. Micco Randell then put up two and Casey saw a 54-48 lead with just under two minutes to play.

Fouls got the best of Casey, and the Knights picked up four points off of foul shots to cut Casey's lead to only two.

Both teams continued to put up points in the final minute of the game, including a three from Cody Clark. Tanner Davis dropped in a basket just before the quarter ended and Casey headed into the final eight minutes with a four-point lead, 59-55.

4th period

The pace picked up in the final quarter and Casey saw Marion's trapping press defense pick up.

The Rebels maintained their lead until the 6:30 mark when the Knights went ahead 62-61.

With 4:11 left, Baylen Hill fouled out and Marion sank the two foul shots it resulted in, going up 71-61, their biggest lead of the game.

"We got a little fat-headed thinking we were going to beat them. We thought they were going to lay down and they didn't; they came right back at us and came right back in the game," said Stallworth.

Again, Casey showed persistence and responded. The Rebels went on a 8-0 run, cutting the Marion lead to two, 71-69.

The score remained tight until the 1:10 mark when Scott tied it up 75-75.

Casey regained possession with 49.3 seconds to play but a drive to the basket too early saw Marion get the ball back with 20 seconds remaining.

The Knights sank an under the basket shot with only two seconds to play with Casey out of time outs. Marion won 77-75.

"Toward the end of the stretch, the freshmen tended to make some not so great decisions. Everybody made some bad decisions down the floor, even myself, but with that being said, they gave a good effort and that was a good team we just played."

Freshman mistakes or not, three freshmen led the team's scoring. Smith finished with 18, followed by Miller who had 12. Breece Hayes and Jordan Brown each had nine. Hill led rebounding with 11, followed by Tanner Davis who had six. Smith and Miller each had four assists. Randall had two points.

Number one Anderson too much for Lady Rebels

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

Opening season against the number one ranked team in the state is a challenge most teams would shy away from, but someone had to do it and this year it was the Lady Rebels taking on the Anderson County Lady Bearcats, with Casey County losing 78-45.

"They are ranked number one in the state for a reason and they shot the ball extremely well," said Coach Randy Salyers, noting that Anderson shot over 50 percent from the field.

The Lady Bearcats had control of the game from the start, gaining a double-digit lead within the first five minutes of play.

Three treys from Anderson's Makenzie Cann were a large part of a 27-10 lead the Bearcats had by the end of the quarter.

"We just had a hard time stopping them. They are a veteran team with several seniors and they did a good job running their offense," Salyers said.

Anderson only outscored Casey by seven in the second quarter, but still had a solid 49-25 lead at half-time.

That lead grew to 73-37 by the end of the third. Casey outscored the Lady Bearcats in the final quarter, 8-5, making the final score 78-45. Cann finished with seven three pointers.

"I feel like our girls played hard. We got mixed up on our switches on our defense and just didn't get out to the shooters," said Salyers. "They weren't a very big team, so on the offensive end, anytime we could get it inside we got some production."

The coach was also pleased with the team's free throw shooting, hitting 19 out of 25 for 76 percent.

Tiara Cochran led scoring with 10 points, followed by Brooke Snow who had nine.

"The main thing we'll get out of it is we don't back down from anybody and our kids played hard for the entire game," Salyers said. "We kind of know where we're at and we're going to work on our foot speed the next couple of days and get better at that."

The Lady Rebels have their first home game tomorrow when they host Thomas Nelson at 7:30 p.m., kicking off a series of six consecutive home games. They play Franklin County on Saturday at 4 p.m. then Corbin at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Gateway Park champs

Probation revocations prominent on court docket

By Larry Rowell
Editor

A number of residents out of jail on probation were in Casey County Circuit Court before Judge Judy Vance on Nov. 25 for the purpose of having violated the terms of their parole agreements.

Rebecca M. Hall had her probation revoked for failing to complete the Casey County Drug Court program because of missing meetings and failing to get prescriptions approved. Hall was granted shock probation on July 11, 2012 after pleading guilty to charges of criminal attempt to manufacture meth, two counts of possession of a controlled substance the first and second degree, possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of marijuana, and possession of a meth precursor. Hall was arrested on March 29, 2012 and sentenced to five years.

In other cases:

■ Ronnie G. Godbey had his probation revoked for having paid only $9.50 toward $100 restitution and being convicted on Oct. 24 of failure to maintain insurance, failure to produce an insurance card, failure to wear a seat belt, and first offense DUI. Godbey was originally sentenced on Mar. 29, 2012 to two years in prison, probated for five years on charges of tampering with physical evidence, third-degree criminal trespass, theft by unlawful taking under $500 and third-degree possession of a controlled substance.

■ Matthew Wade had his probation revoked and was sentenced to serve the remainder of a five year sentence for operating a motor vehicle on a suspended license and failing to report to his probation officer. On July 12, 2012, Wade pleaded guilty and received five years probation for pleading guilty to eight counts of second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument. He was also ordered to pay $636.17 at a rate of $100 a month.

■ George Frank Herring was sentenced to five years in prison on a charge of receiving stolen property under $10,000.

■ Scott Douglas Haste was sentenced to five years in prison probated for five years on charges of second-degree burglary, two counts of theft by unlawful taking, third-degree burglary, and four counts of being a persistent felony offender.

■ Misty Dawn Bernard had her probation revoked for admitting to using methamphetamines, benzodiazepines, and possession of drug paraphernalia by having several pipes inside an old purse which officers found during a visit to Bernard's home on May 3. Bernard was originally sentenced to four years in prison on Nov. 28, 2011 but was shock probated for five years after spending 83 days in jail.

■ Kody S. Chadwell pleaded guilty to second-degree burglary, first-degree criminal mischief, theft by unlawful taking, possession of a controlled substance, meth, possession of drug paraphernalia, resisting arrest, and two counts of persistent felony offender. Final sentencing is set for Jan. 27. Chadwell is to be assessed as a candidate for drug court.

Indictments

Also appearing before Vance were three men who were indicted as a part of the statewide drug roundup — Operation Black Friday — conducted by the Kentucky State Police on Nov. 1.

Christopher Neil Watson pleaded not guilty to first offense, second-degree trafficking in a controlled substance. Pretrial date was set for Feb. 17.

Oliver Lance Holcomb pleaded not guilty to two counts of first offense trafficking in a controlled substance, more than 10 drug units. Pretrial date was set for Feb. 17.

Steven Calhoun pleaded not guilty to two counts of first offense first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance, more than 10 drug units. Pretrial date was set for Feb. 17.

POLICE NEWS

Woman charged with abuse of corpse

Stephanie J. Clements, 40, of 2962 Wilson Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on Nov. 28 by Chief Steven Garrett and charged with tampering with physical evidence and abuse of a corpse. According to court records, Clements admitted to tampering with a crime scene where a dead body was located. Clements further admitted to removing the deceased's clothing to conceal why she died.

Man charged with DUI

Evan D. Allen, 61, of 2049 Bryant Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on Nov. 30 by Deputy Freeman Luttrell on Tennessee Ridge Road and charged with second offense DUI. A citation states that Allen was involved in a one vehicle accident when he left the roadway in a curve, ending up in a yard. Allen was too intoxicated to perform the field sobriety tests, according to the citation.

Man charged with assault

Marcus Chadwell, 41, of 158 Ky. 49, Liberty, was arrested on Nov. 22 in Campbellsville on a warrant charging him with fourth-degree assault, minor injury. The warrant states that on Sept. 29, 2012, Chadwell punched a 15-year-old female juvenile in the mouth, knocking her down and then kicking her in the side of the head. Sgt. Randy Dial brought the charges against Chadwell.

Man charged with resisting arrest

Frankie Ray Posey II, of 289 Bartle Drive, Liberty, was arrested on Nov. 23 by Officer George Emerson and charged with resisting arrest, alcohol intoxication in a public place, and fourth-degree assault, domestic violence, minor injury. Posey told Emerson that he and his son, Frankie Ray Posey III, had gotten into a fight. The son had a knot on his head and a swollen, bloody lip. Posey III said that his father hit and cursed him while he was lying down. Posey II was uncooperative and argumentative and grabbed the door facing when Emerson placed him under arrest.
